NAME OFFICIALS FOR LOCAL CIVIL DEFENSE

Captain James Lassiter, Director of Civil Defense locally, has announced the names of those in charge of the Bethel organization. He wishes to make it clearly understood that there is no conflict between the purposes of the civil defense program and those of the local disaster committee as organized under Red Cross leadership.

The civil defense program will be used only during a national emergency or if the state or portions thereof are declared by the Governor to be disaster areas. The local personnel in charge is not a governing body—they aid but do not replace the regularly elected town officials. The Director of Civil Defense works for and under the direction of the selectmen of Bethel and can be relieved and replaced by them at their discretion.

Captain Lassiter emphasizes that there is a very real need for the present disaster committee to be maintained in its present form for the purpose of caring for local disasters.

The Civil Defense committee:

MRS. A. R. MASON VISITED BY PORTLAND OREGON BROTHER

Paul R. Speth, brother of Mrs. A. R. Mason, who was one of 178 Portland, Ore., men and women en route to Portland, Maine, visited at the Mason farm Thursday, Oct. 5.

A newspaper in Portland, Ore., arranged a tour through Canada to Portland, where they were met by Governor Payne. The Oregoners continued on by special train to Boston.

Governor Adams of New Hampshire conducted them through the White Mountains and other places of interest as the special train came through New Hampshire from Quebec and Montreal, Canada. From Massachusetts the party headed south as far as Virginia, visiting New York and Washington. After reaching Virginia the tour will turn west again. The Oregoners are traveling by special train all the way.

Mr. Speth spent the night at the Mason farm and Mr. and Mrs. Mason carried him to Portland Friday morning. It had been about 20 years since he and his sister had seen each other and the visit was a happy reunion.

Our Oregon friends, who will have traveled about 8,000 miles when they reach home, were much enthused over the beauties of Maine, as well as other states in New England. All parts of the United States have their own special natural beauties, and God has made our world a wonderful place.

To us who live in the Pine Tree State, He has given an unusual variety of Nature in all her moods. For those who love the sea with its borders of white sand, where while gulls dart hither and yon, Maine has a place. While for those who prefer the mountains dressed in the beautiful bright hues of Autumn, Maine has many opportunities.

We wish our Oregon friends a "Bon Voyage."

MAINE BLUE CROSS PLAN MAY INCLUDE MORE SERVICE SOON

The 265,000 members of the Maine Blue Cross plan may soon have opportunity to provide against the expense of physicians' services during hospitalization, as they now budget hospital care expense, according to Paul A. Webb executive director of the Associated Hospital

Service of Maine. Substantial progress toward that goal has been made in recent weeks through the joint efforts of the Health Inurance Committee of the Maine Medical Association, headed by its chairman, Eugene H. Drake, M. D.,

Portland, and staff members of the Maine Blue Cross Plan, according to Webb.

Non-profit physicians' service plans of this type being studied for integration with the Maine Blue

Cross plan are popularly known as

"Blue Shield" plans. Webb stated, although permission to identify a plan as "Blue Shield" must be secured from Associated Medical Care Plans as recognition that the program meets its standards as to medical society approval or sponsorship, free choice of physician, not-for-profit operation and numerous safeguards for subscribers.

The 71 approved Blue Shield

plans enrolled 1,124,372 new members during the second quarter of this year, beating all previous reports for enrollment growth and pushing total enrollment in these physicians' service plans beyond

17 million members.

In Maine there has been such an increasing and growing demand from Blue Cross members for an "easy payment" plan of group insurance covering the expense of surgery and other medical care incurred during hospitalized illness and injury that news of the recent progress made on such a program and the prospects of its early introduction to Maine will be enthusiastically received here and rapid enrollment is practically assured when the plan is offered to the public. Webb stated.

THIS IS NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

This is National Fire Prevention

Week, October 8 to 14. All Maine residents are urged to check their homes and other buildings for possible fire hazards and remove them at once. Hundreds of lives and thousands of dollars worth of property are destroyed each year in fires that could have been prevent-

Exposing "The Big Lie"

The Communist DAILY WORKER lying on my desk at this column is being written carries a headline story about the Communist Madison Square Garden rally "for the Bill of Rights" a number of internationally-known Communist speakers held forth. This Communist lip service to the cause of freedom reminds me of the recent radio speech of General Eisenhower on the occasion of the opening of the Crusade for Freedom. He labeled world Communism and Communist propaganda as "The Big Lie."

The Madison Square Garden Communist rally was called, according to the DAILY WORKER, to fight for individual freedom as set forth in the American Bill of Rights. The newspaper said speakers included "Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, member of the Communist Party's National Committee; Gus Hill, Communist Party Secretary; Howard Johnson, New York State Communist Party Educational Director; Leon Wolff, youth leader; and others. The speakers cried impassioned allegiance to the American Bill of Rights and loudly proclaimed Communism's "fight for individual freedom."

Truth From China

A friend of mine can give eloquent reply to this New York Communist rally and its "fight for freedom." He is a Chinese gentleman whom I've known since 1930. He is a man of extraordinary intellect and unquestioned integrity. He has escaped from Communist tyranny in China to British Hong Kong which is becoming a mecca for Chinese fleeing from the friends of the Madison Square Garden speakers. Immediately upon arrival in Hong Kong, he wrote me as follows:

"I am glad to tell you that I managed to get out of China and am now in Hong Kong. Thus I am free to speak and to do what I want to. In China, people have no freedom of speaking, printing, or moving about. There, one is compelled to say that the Communist government is good and that the National government is bad, that the Russians are our friends and the Americans our enemies, that the teachings of Confucius are mere feudalism while the teachings of Marx, Lenin, and Stalin are proper socialism."

Compulsion and Death

The DAILY WORKER on my desk says "cheers about the house" at the Madison Square Garden rally leading the Bill of Rights when Benjamin Davis, Communist functionary, said "Tonight we pay tribute to our Communist Party, confident in the knowledge that it will fulfill its destiny in helping to realize the people into a mighty coalition for peace and freedom and in leading the fight for the establishment of socialism."

My friend in Hong Kong, an honest man, wrote: "In Communist China, one is compelled to say that religion is mere superstition while materialism is absolute truth; that man comes from a lower creation and was not created by God, that God could not have made man because there is no God. Should anyone speak contrary to their anti-God, anti-American doctrine as indicated above, he will be imprisoned or killed."

Many Sidelines

"The Communist government takes away nearly all the rice from the farmers and leaves them very, very poor," my Chinese friend wrote. "It takes nearly all the money away from the merchants and if they interfere are very poor. Should a man be fortunate enough to have a parcel of rice regardless of how large his family may be, he would indeed be a rich man. Individual merchants are compelled

"Do Unto Others . . ."

THE FOLLOWING STORY originated a number of years ago, and Oliver Simms, New York City, says he has had ample time to prove the benefit of what he learned.

He had been given the responsibility of directing the work of several men and women. The nature of the work was very exacting; even a small mistake could cause considerable trouble and be the means of creating a good deal of expense for the employer.

He was rather young and, as he says, possibly a bit over-zealous, and since he himself was a conscientious worker, more or less of a "perfectionist," he soon developed into a rather strict man. Everything had to be done just the right way, and invariably the right way was the way he wanted it done. He allowed no leeway. When a mistake occurred, he didn't hesitate to let the perpetrator know how he felt about it and how the company officials would feel about it. He always ended his remarks with "and we don't want it to occur again." Then he went about his own duties with no thought of how it affected the employees.

It wasn't long before he was recognized as a very unpopular person. Naturally!

But, fortunately, it wasn't long either before Oliver Simms realized his lack of popularity. He didn't feel he had a real friend in the place. He was an intelligent man; he knew that no one can work long among a group of people if they are not his friends. He began to take stock of himself. Then he recalled the golden rule. Remember it? In case you don't, here it is: "Do Unto Others as You Would Have Others Do Unto You."

Was he treating his fellow workers the way he would want to be treated? He, too, had made mistakes; he, too, no doubt, would make others, no matter how conscientious he was.

It took a little time to correct the situation he had created, but not so long as maybe you would think, for people are quick to respond to kindness, understanding and sympathetic interest.

WITH THE RECORD of the last congress a matter for the verdict of the voters in November. There was an atmosphere of relief here in Washington, both in and out of government, as the lawmakers trekked out of town, some to lose . . . others to win re-election at the polls . . . but must to put in busy hours before the election south open Nov. 7.

Even up to the last moment of adjournment there was tension and rebellion in the air as first the house and then the senate passed the McCarran anti-subversive bill over the veto of President Truman. And likely this measure may become a campaign issue, although 24 Democrats in the senate voted to make the bill law despite presidential veto.

It has been a hysteria-ridden congress, fearful of what the people might do in retaliation at the polls, which herded otherwise sober-minded senators to vote for the most drastic curb on freedom ever in the books in this country. It has been a congress which had been nagged and spent by witch hunts and Communist charges and counter-charges for months which finally gave in "for a mess of pottage" and plastered the measure on the statute book, although the President and the department of justice said the bill would do these things: (1) It would require publication of vital defense installations; (2) It would waste time of the justice department and the FBI on "its unworkable registration provisions"; (3) It would cost the assistance of many aliens in intelligence matters; (4) It would antagonize friendly governments; (5) It would put the government in the thought control business; (6) It would permit creation of alien camps in this country and give the government vast powers to harass all citizens in their right of free speech. In debate on the floor opponents of the measure likened it to New England witchcraft and to the alien and sedition laws of early colonial days.

The call for a return to Washington on November 7 is for the purpose of holding hearings on an excess profit provision of the 1951 tax law as promised when the present tax law was passed. Congressman Robert Doughton of North Carolina already has announced his house committee will go in session for the tax hearings.

Not to be outdone by the senate, the house has named a subcommittee of its executive expenditures committee.

Friends of Sen. Charles W. Tobey, of New Hampshire, were offering him their congratulations upon his nomination by a hailfire decision as the GOP senator from that state. According to word from New Hampshire, a recount may yet decide the issue. The battle against Senator Tobey, one of the thorns in the side of the more conservative Republicans because of his liberalism, was led by a Manchester newspaper publisher, William Loeb. When the Tobey organization published statements concerning Senator Tobey by his GOP colleagues, Publisher Loeb sent these senators telegrams asking confirmation of their statements. Several senators either backed down, denied or side-stepped the issue, much to Loeb's glee and Senator Tobey's discomfort.

But Sen. George Allen of neighboring Vermont stuck by his guns. Senator Allen's reply to Publisher Loeb said:

"Senator Tobey has fought shoulder to shoulder with me for the St. Lawrence development, REA and low-cost power for New England. He stood by me when the federal administration tried to get control of the farmers of America. He has consistently fought for better health and education, better living conditions for low income and working people and other measures I have stood for. His exposure of 'charitable trusts' has resulted in a provision in the new tax bill which plugs the loopholes through which some corporations escaped taxes."

"Although I have no intention of participating in the New Hampshire campaign, you know me well enough to know that I would not turn on Senator Tobey when he is under attack."

to defend the Soviet Union, the land of victorious socialism. I pledge myself at all times to remain a vigilant and firm defender of the Leninist line of the party, the only line that insures the triumph of the Soviet power in the United States."

A WORD TO WORK WITH
Today's word is recompense.

This word comes from the Latin re plus compensare, meaning to compensate, and is associated with thoughts of balance, justice, and equivalence. The just employer recompenses his employees for necessary services; the employer is recompensed by the fruitful labor of the workmen he employs. So, our word means to render an equivalent for service, in some way, for, to pay for. As a noun, suit-

By LITTLE HULL

ON PAPER we should do as President Truman seems to intend and withdraw the seventh fleet from the Formosan straits. On paper we have no right to save from massacre the remnants of the brave Chinese who fought beside us in the great war and whom we have since revoltingly abandoned (See Lattimore.)

On paper we have no right to stop the Red march down the Korean peninsula, over to Japan, and then to the Philippines. On paper we should stick to our own halibut and let the rest of the world take care of itself. If the Chinese Communists want to join the U.N., or the German Reds can take over the rest of Germany, what business is it of ours—on paper?

But wake up Mr. President and Mr. Secretary of State and Mr. and Mrs. America. This ain't no paper war we are in! This is a war in which American soldiers are already losing their precious lives. This is a war which will continue until the Politburo ceases to exist, or until the United States is conquered. Every time we give an inch, we lose a battle. If we win in Korea we will win a campaign. If we withdraw the Seventh Fleet from Formosa we will lose a campaign. If we lose Korea and Formosa, we will lose Japan and the Philippines, and Russia can then turn her full attention upon the destruction of decency in Europe—if she hasn't done so before then—and allow the Chinese Reds to complete the Asiatic conquest.

What chance will we then have Mr. President? The local Communist pressure will become so overpowering that before we are aware of it, we will find ourselves faced with the same Communist pressure as that which so nearly downed Italy just two or three years ago. And we won't have any help from outside.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLDTIMERS

From J. Risor Camryn of Seattle, Wash.: "I remember when we went to the woods for nuts in the fall—mostly black walnuts—and how we prepared them for winter. By removing the hull and pounding them through the proper-sized knot hole or one bored through a plank. Then nailing a cleat on the sloping barn roof, and placing them one by one behind it to dry and cure. And the stained hands we had for a long time afterward. Most of the boys in school had 'em.'"

From Marie J. Chubb of Chicago: "I remember the good sponge sandy we used to buy as children at candy kitchens or in school stores. We paid a penny for a bag. I sure wish I had some now!"

From the Rev. Robert E. Oughman of Kirkwood, Mo.: "I'm not much of an old-timer, but I remember when women used to raise children instead of poodle dogs."

From Mary Stewart of Chicago to Mrs. Minnie Cox: Do you remember "Won't You Come Over in My Yard," "The Only a Bird in a Caged Cage," "Molly, I and the Baby" or "Down Went McGinty to the Bottom of the Sea"? Or the song that began, "Satan is a dandy, he'll feed you on Nick's candy, climbing up the golden stairs?"

able return, payment, reward. "Recompense to no man evil for evil." (Romans 12:17). "The laborer is worthy of his reward." (1 Timothy 4:15). "O'erpay 'til I come." (Luke 19:13).

If you are looking for an article which symbolizes the Chinese and Japanese way of life, you had better choose chopsticks rather than the fork and knife. The latter may be considered wholly Oriental, but The World Book Encyclopedia reports that it was invented in 1899 by an American Baptist minister, Jonathan Noble.

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor
Parents Magazine

HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED how often adopted children resemble their foster parents? Of course, under modern agency procedure the physical and mental characteristics of each child and adopting couple are as carefully matched as possible. But beyond this, mannerisms, attitudes, spontaneous reactions often make uniformed observers exclaim, "Why, he's the image of his father, isn't he?"

This capacity for imitation leads us to expect that children will be like their parents—even in deficiencies. We shrug our shoulders at Jane's low spelling grade and say, "Well, her mother never could spell either." Jane has probably heard these words many times, and it may be this pronounced inability that is responsible for her difficulty. Some parents constantly underestimate their children, forgetting that just as a son grows in height to tower over his father, many sons eventually surpass their parents in mental growth.

It's just as dangerous, of course, to overrate a child. Imagine how humiliating it must be to a mediocre student to know his parents have already registered him in a big name college and cherish hopes of seeing him graduate with honors. Not content with normal family likeness, we make subtle efforts to make our children more like ourselves. A man who is mechanically inclined is apt to try to fix a car son away from constant book reading. Conversely, a scholarly father cannot help feeling his boy is wasting time pottering with wires and screws. These disapproving attitudes on the part of the parents won't change a child's nature, but they can be damaging to his security. Teen-agers, especially, are apt to feel crushed when the weight of parental disapproval is added to overly harsh self-condemnation. A school teacher overheard an adolescent girl telling her friend, "The trouble with me is that I'm the kind of person my mother doesn't want me to associate with."

This does not mean that enthusiasms and worthwhileness of certain human relationships cannot be communicated by example. The pleasure Mother and Dad get from reading aloud to each other after dinner is the best possible learning stimulus to the children. And a father who bounds eagerly up the stairs to be welcomed by Mother's "How good to have you home," accomplishes more for a child's giving children a healthy, joyous reverent attitude toward marriage than would any number of lectures on the subject.

We all know homes which fairly buzz with hobby activity. It is in such an atmosphere that children develop exciting new interests and often reveal talents unsuspected gifts. But don't be disappointed if they bear little resemblance to those talents you hoped your child would have.

son, a bare two weeks after the President said that he would keep that official on for the duration of his Administration. Is a straw in the wind. Public and Congressional opinion had flared up against Mr. Johnson to the point where, the political high command decided, he was an impossible liability to the party. General Marshall, with his vast prestige and splendid record, was from that point of view a perfect choice.

That the Republicans have plenty of ammunition goes without saying. The vast change for the better in the Korean situation does not detract from the fact that we were utterly unprepared for war there. The right-about-face that the Administration has made in Asiatic policy provides the GOP with a potent charge. Great criticism will be made of the Administration's demand that private citizens stretch when it continues domestic spending at an increasing rate while piling on top of it an unpredictable number of millions—$30,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year alone—for military purposes. The basic Republican argument will be that the Democrats have at last shown themselves utterly incapable of guiding this country through the period of strain and grave danger that lies ahead. The Republican leaders feel that there is evidence that this belief has grown in the grass-roots. Whether it has grown to a sufficient extent to change the control of Congress is what no one knows. And that is what will make the coming elections unusually interesting as well as vitally important.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

To put it mildly, the political situation of both parties are in a state of confusion and wonder as to what changes, if any, the November elections will produce. Republican and Democratic party spokesmen have gone through the routine of saying they expect whopping victories at the polls. Neither side, it is safe to say, is anywhere as confident as those standard brand prognostications would indicate.

The primaries have not demonstrated much of anything. Both pro-Truman and anti-Truman candidates have won. The New Hampshire primary was watched with greatest interest, where pro-Truman Senator Tobey ran against an anti-Truman war veteran. Senator Tobey made the grade, but by a very scant margin. In the Maine election, the GOP candidate, as usual, won in a walk. Elsewhere results were indecisive.

The Democratic position will be much the same as it was last time. It will be argued that the President is the friend of the masses of the people and the enemy of the exploiters and that his program is just what the country needs. It will be necessary to elect a strongly Democratic Congress, the argument will continue, to give him the backing he must have. The Taft-Hartley law will undoubtedly take a verbal beating, as a bid is made for the important labor vote. The Truman plan will get its full share of praise, as an inducement to the farmer to stay on the Democratic side of the ticket.

The beano game by the Community Club on Tuesday was well attended.

Mrs Clyde Morgan attended the ETTC at Bethel on Tuesday evening.

Mrs Stanley Hakala called on friends at Tubbs District this week.

Mrs Little Brooks of West Paris spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs Clyde Morgan.

Mrs Hazen Libby of Portland spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs Roland Hayes. Mr and Mrs Adam Waterhouse of Portland also spent Sunday with them and all went to the White Mountains for the day.

Frank and Fred Curtis, Mr and Mrs Frank Britton and Mr and Mrs Clyde Morgan were in Franklin County on Sunday where they climbed Tumbledown Mountain.

Tumbledown is a mountain of three peaks and arranged somewhat like a cloverleaf with shallow ravines between. Near the summit is a good sized lake. The entire top is rock formation with few trees. The rock formations are interesting. From the last peak looking back is a beautiful profile of George Washington. There are many overhanging cliffs and the view is very beautiful.

SCHOOL NEWS
by Evelyn Curtis, Grade VI
On Monday morning Norman brought in a white violet that had lived through the frost.

Tuesday afternoon our teacher said that we could go and see how many different kinds and colors of leaves we could find. On our return we looked at one branch and found that it had started to blossom again. We learned how to press leaves with carbon paper and a hot iron and then transfer them in black on to another paper. We also did finger painting and spatter painting.

Then on Wednesday morning the first grade brought in some different kinds of toys for Toy Day. Everyone was interested to see the way each worked. The big musical elephant had the most attention. John Curtis brought that. Bob's penguin was lots of fun, too.

Guests who visited us one afternoon! It was "Mr Cricket." We had been discussing him and how he made his music. We watched and found he rubs his wings together. We also learned that his ears are on his legs. A surprise to us!

Friday there was no school as Mrs Morgan went to Convention!

Who Runs America?

the Congress?

the President?

OR YOU AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR?

RUNNING AMERICA is the joint job of 150,000,000 people. It's the biggest job in the world today—keeping it running for liberty and for freedom. And the whole world's watching to see whether Americans can do it!

IN MUCH OF THE WORLD today, the people have resigned from running their own countries. Others have been quick to step in—first with promises of "security"—and then with whips and guns—to run things their way. The evidence is on every front page in the world, every day.

FREEDOM COMES UNDER ATTACK. The reality of war has made every American think hard about the things he's willing to work and fight for—and freedom leads the list.

But that freedom has been attacked here recently—just as it has been attacked in other parts of the world. One of the most serious threats to individual freedom has been the threat of Government-dominated Compulsory Health Insurance, falsely presented as a new guarantee of health "security" for everybody.

THE PEOPLE WEIGH THE FACTS. In the American manner, the people studied the case for Socialized Medicine—and the case against it.

They found that Government domination of the people's medical affairs under Compulsory Health Insurance means lower standards of medical care, higher payroll taxes, loss of incentive, damage to research, penalties for the provident, rewards for the improvident.

They found that no country on earth can surpass America's leadership in medical care and progress. They found that able doctors, teachers, nurses and scientists—working in laboratories where Science, not Politics, is master—are blazing dramatic new trails to health for Americans—and for the world.

THE "GRASS ROOTS" SIGNALS CONGRESS. In every community in the Nation, people stood up to be counted on this important issue. Thousands of local women's clubs, civic groups, farm, business, religious, taxpayer, medical, educational and patriotic organizations spoke out—giving the great United States Congress its unmistakable Grass Roots signal from home!

And ever watchful, ever sensitive to an alert people, The Congress saw that signal, and heard the people speak out, loud and plain. That's democracy in action. That's the American way!

Today among the 10,000 great organizations on militant public record against "Compulsory Health Insurance" are:

General Federation of Women's Clubs
American Farm Bureau Federation
National Grange
Veterans of Foreign Wars
National Conference of Catholic Charities
American Protestant Hospital Association

American Legion
National Association of Small Business Men
United States Chamber of Commerce
National Association of Retail Grocers
National Retail Dry Goods Association
American Bar Association

Doctors of this Nation are grateful that the people refused to be wooed by the fantastic promises of this un-American excursion into State Socialism. Doctors of America are dedicated to serve their fellow citizens at home and their comrades in uniform, wherever service to this Nation may take them. And the thing they stand ready to fight for—to sacrifice for—to die for—is not the alien way of life of Socialism, but the proud security of a free and self-reliant people!

THE VOLUNTARY WAY IS THE AMERICAN WAY!

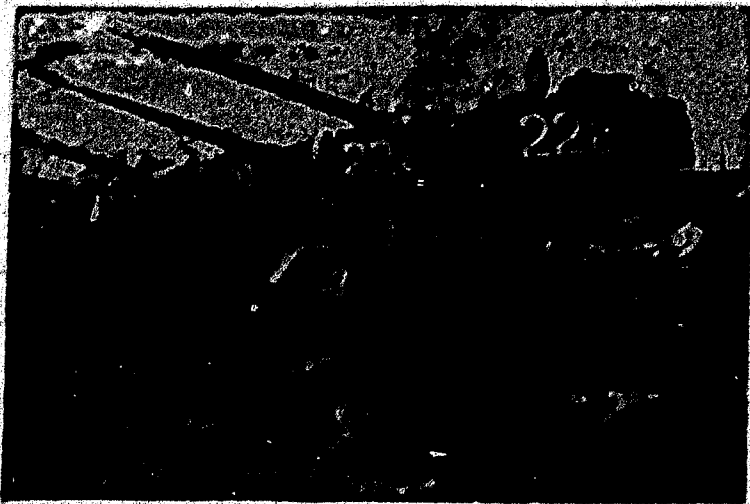

Throughout the Nation, free men and women, working and planning together, are finding the American answer to every question of medical service, care and cost. Hundreds of Voluntary Health Insurance Plans are in healthy competition—sponsored by doctors, insurance companies, hospitals, fraternal organizations—by industry, agriculture and labor.

In America—70 million people are protected by Voluntary Health Insurance! Throughout the Nation, families are insuring themselves against the major costs of illness—at reasonable, budget-basis prices. Voluntary Health Insurance takes the economic shock out of illness. Protect your family now. For information, ask your doctor—or your insurance man.

An American's greatest heritage is the right to learn the facts—and to speak his mind. Maintained with honor and used with sincerity—that right will guarantee forever that

You and Your Neighbor Run America!

TANK UNIT . . . The caption that accompanied this photograph, distributed by the Soviet-licensed east German news agency ADN, read as follows: "A tank unit of the North Korean people's army."

U. S. GOVERNMENT EXPENSE INCREASES

Uncle Sam should set an example in keeping with President Truman's September 9 request to the people to exercise "patriotic self-restraint" in the spending of household and business funds.

One dollar out of every five spent in the United States today is spent by the Federal Government, and these government spent dollars create just as much inflation as dollars spent by the people.

A total of $25 billion, $20 million in new spending authority is given the Federal Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1951 in the two money bills passed by the 81st Congress. This sum exceeds by over $16 billion retail sales for the entire United States in the year 1950. The two measures are the General Appropriation Act, enacted into law September 6, and the supplemental Appropriation Act, approved by Congress just prior to its adjournment.

People want to know the answer to such questions as: How much will the Government really spend in 1951? How much revenue will it collect? Will there be a deficit, and how much?

An "informed guess" would place the figure for Federal Government spending in 1951 at $47.2 billion based on figures available to the Washington office of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce. Taking into account the newly enacted tax increases, Federal revenues for the fiscal year 1951 may be expected to reach upward of $43 billion. Assuming an expenditure of $47.2 billion, a deficit of something over $4 billion as of next June 30 is indicated.

Despite some cuts made by Congress, Government non-war spending remains at an unacceptably high level. For instance, the Interior Department 1951 appropriation is $200 million as compared to $221 million in 1948. The Post Office got $723 million gross as against $116 million gross in 1948. It is estimated that the people of Maine will be called upon to pay at least $182 million as their share of the cost of Federal Government for 1951. In addition, Maine people's liability for their share of the expected deficit will exceed $17 million.

Congress and the Executive Branch working together can reduce unnecessary non-war spending and avoid costly new non-war programs.

Nobody's Business

The complaint this week concerns speeding in the vicinity of Bethel post office during the busy hour just before noon. With cars parked on both sides of the street it is a hazardous undertaking at times to back a car from the curb and fare forth again or to walk across the street. This matter of heedless and fast driving of course has nothing to do with the local traffic and parking ordinances, and nearly all of the offenders being local drivers another threat of law enforcement would be likely to help the situation.

Since the opening of schools last month this appeal for reasonable driving speeds may be appropriate.

There is still quite a general disregard of local traffic regulations relating to double parking and parking too near driveways and hydrants. In this also our own townspeople show the least regard for others' rights. Enforcement of these rules is not anticipated.
